Michael A. Vadini to be Panelist at McColl School of Business and Ernst & Young Hosted Entrepreneurial Panel

CHARLOTTE, NC - (April 15, 2007) – TITAN Technology Partners, a leading provider of hosted and managed industry ERP solutions, announced today Michael A. Vadini, CEO and founder of TITAN Technology Partners, has been selected as a panelist at McColl School of Business and Ernst & Young hosted Entrepreneurial Panel.

The McColl School of Business at Queens University of Charlotte and Ernst & Young have partnered together to bring Charlotte area entrepreneurs and business leaders to the McColl School to initiate meaningful dialogue and garner support of entrepreneurship in Charlotte and the surrounding regions. The program, called “War Stories,” is an annual event hosted by the Entrepreneurial Leadership Circle (ELC), an exclusive group of almost 70 entrepreneurs involved with the McColl School. “War Stories” will take place on Wednesday, May 9th and will feature a panel of four entrepreneurs who will share their stories of struggle and triumph in building their own businesses. The panel, which creates meaningful dialogue around entrepreneurship and discusses perspectives on innovation, creativity, and risk-taking, was modeled after Ernst & Young’s Entrepreneur of the Year Award master panel discussion at the Spiro Center at Clemson University.

Panelists for this year’s event include Mary Tribble, president of Tribble Creative Group; Michael Vadini, CEO of TITAN Technology Partners; John Granzow, managing director of The Granzow Consulting Group of Wachovia Securities; and Michael Pandich, managing director of Connexus. Chris William, senior executive consultant in the Private Wealth Management Group of Wachovia Securities and executive producer and moderator of the regional PBS television program “Carolina Business Review” will moderate the panel.

Michael Vadini founded TITAN Technology Partners in 1998 after selling his first firm, Prima Consulting, in 1996. Since founding TITAN Technology Partners, Vadini has grown the organization to over 230 employees spread across 30 states focused on providing industry specific strategic and professional services, educational services, hosted and managed services, and outsourcing to mid-sized companies.
